MOORE

—Dr. A. R. Moore, a native of Bourbon county, died suddenly at his home in Atlanta, Georgia, Friday. A telegram to his sister, Mrs. A. G. Payne, in Lexington, stated that he had been found dead in his bed.

Dr. Moore was born and reared within five miles of the old Cane Ridge church, near North Middletown. His grandfather came into the church under the leadership of "Raccoon" John Smith, the noted evangelist. Mr. Moore became a member of the church at the age of ten years, making the confession under the preaching of Eld. Moses Lard, and being baptized by Rev. John S. Sweeney, of the Paris church. He graduated at the age of eighteen at the North Middletown Classical College, of which E. V. Zollars was then president. At twenty he graduated from the classical department of the College of the Bible. Dr. Moore has held pastorates at different parts of the country, his last charge being at Atlanta. Dr. Moore spent the month of August visiting friends and relatives in this section. He had not been in the best of health, and the news of his death came as a distinct shock to his hundreds of friends and relatives throughout the Blue Grass region. He had recently accepted a call as president of the Southeastern Christian College, at Auburn, Georgia.

Dr. Moore is survived by his widow and four children, James A. Moore, pastor of the First Christian Church, of Macon, Ga.; Wright T.
